OBITUARY.

POWELL.—At his residence on his farm near Napoleon, on the 24th day of July, 1886, of Uremia, John Powell, aged 73 years, 7 months and 10 days.

The three score years and ten allotted by the psalmist to human life have run their course, the summons has come, the pioneer has taken "his chamber in the silent halls of death," and John Powell lies asleep with his fathers.

The life of John Powell is the history of Henry county and especially of the town of Napoleon. He was born in Oneida county, N. Y., on the 14th day of Dec., 1806; was married to Esther Magill, in Erie county, Ohio, January 3, 1831, and located in Henry county in June, 1835. The same year he was elected township clerk; in 1837 Auditor of the county, and subsequently to the office of sheriff and justice of the peace. In 1840 he was appointed associate judge of Henry county; in 1858 he was elected county commissioner and has filled that office for several terms since that time.

During the 51 years that Judge Powell has lived in Napoleon he has seen all the ups and downs of pioneer life. When he first came here there was no canal, no rail or other roads—nothing but trails and horse paths; all travel was on horse back or by ox teams, and that slowly and with difficulty, requiring courage, fortitude and determination possessed by few of the present generation. At that time Napoleon consisted of one house, a log cabin, owned by a Mr. Andrews, and the deceased was among the first to put up a building on the site of the present town, being compelled to use blankets for doors and windows. Indians then composed the chief population and from the forests rifle harvested the winter provisions.

What a panorama the pioneer's vision must present! Sitting by his well finished and furnished farm house; surrounded by his family of men and women—educated, respected, learned and skilled in their various pursuits of life, grand children crowded around the knee, his stories sound like fables of Eastern land; and as he tells of early hardships and deprivations, the wonderful growth and great transformation, Aladdin's lamp seems to have been his.

John Powell has lived a manly and useful life. Faithful to every trust, he ever enjoyed the full confidence and respect of his fellow man. He was true to his convictions, and his devotion to them led him into many controversies, but his sincerity always commanded respect and disarmed malice, and it may truly be said that he died without an enemy, an honest man, respected by the entire community, and "after life's fitful fever he sleeps well."

Sad mortal! couldst thou but know What truly it means to die, The wings of thy soul would glow, And the hopes of thy heart beat high; Thou wouldst turn from the pyrrhonian schools And laugh their jargon to scorn, As the babble of midnight fools Ere the morning of Truth be born:—from heaven of heavens above God speaketh with baldest breath—My angel of perfect love Is the angel men call Death! H.

DEATH.—At her home in Napoleon, Aug. 4, 1886, Laura, wife of Mr. Lewis H. Diehl, aged 33 years, 3 months and 20 days. Funeral services were conducted at the M. E. Church Friday at 10 A. M., Rev. J. C. Clemens presiding. Text: Colossians 1st chapter and 12th verse.

Laura Peyton was united in marriage to Mr. Lewis Diehl Oct. 7th, 1853, less than three years was their union blessed when death removed the beloved and loving companion. Mrs. D. has been a constant sufferer early in the spring, and the last two months has been confined to her bed, uncomplainingly bearing her afflictions and meeting death calmly and fearlessly, trusting in Him who doth all things well. Life to her was sweet and full of promise. Scarcely three years of a happy wedded life had passed, when a separation came. Laura was happy in her home, possessing the fullest confidence and trust of a loving husband, ministering to the wants of Mr. D.'s motherless children when under her care, supplying the place of mother, friend and confessor to the orphaned Lillie, teaching her to be useful, good and noble. Her loss will be painfully felt.

Mrs. D. was a practical christian and a true woman—true friend never lived—having known and enjoyed her friendship for years, the writer can speak positively of the esteemable worth and sterling qualities that possessed her large, loving, sympathetic heart. She was always a favorite among the aged, reverently respecting the gray-haired father or mother, thus endearing herself to many honest and true hearts. With the children also she was a general favorite, teaching them by precept and example to be good and true. Kind words and noble deeds, prompted by the love of doing good made up her useful and self-sacrificing life. We could relate some instances personally known to the writer, manifesting her benevolence and innate goodness of heart, little deeds of kindness that will ever be remembered with gratitude by those surviving her, and kept in remembrance by him who notes even the fall of a sparrow. Dear Laura, gone to her reward, language fails to express the tender regard we have ever felt for her, whose love and friendship has been ever the same to us in prosperity and in adversity sickness and health, rejoicing or weeping, always and ever the same tried faithful friend. We sympathize with the husband and children in their irreparable and unspeakable loss. To know her was to love her. Her life when in health was active and useful as a christian, a Sabbath school teacher and an earnest whole-souled christian. As her health declined her faith and trust in God grew stronger, often telling of God's goodness to her and expressing her unworthiness; but thanks be to God who hath made her meet to be a partaker of the inheritance of the saints in light. L. E. M.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow men. I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. ## Fatal Fire in Franklin County.

OTTAWA, O., Aug. 4.—Yesterday Geo. Hedrick, of Jackson township, in this county, lost a large frame barn, three horses, which were roasted alive, seven hundred bushels of wheat, twenty tons of hay and quite a number of farming implements, which were all consumed by fire before aid could be obtained to put out the flames. The estimated loss is $4,000; insurance unknown. The building is supposed to have been set on fire by incendiaries. While Mr. Hedrick was endeavoring to save some of the stock, which was all burned to ashes, he was badly burned about the head, face and arms, his hair being all burned off. He is not expected to live.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a manner peculiar to itself, the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. You will find this wonderful remedy effective where other medicines have failed. Try it now. It will purify your blood, regulate the digestion, and give new life and vigor to the entire body.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me great good. I was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." Mrs. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y. "I suffered three years from blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and think I am cured." Mrs. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." J. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.
